

Team Building Activities at The Royal Crescent Hotel & Spa

THE ROYAL CRESCENT
HOTEL & SPA
BATH

Looking to add a team building activity to your away-day or offsite meeting?

Here are a few ideas of what The RCH has to offer both at the hotel and around the City of Bath...

An aerial photograph of Bath, England, showing the Crescent Lawn, a large green lawn area, and the surrounding historic buildings. The text "Activities on The Crescent Lawn" is overlaid in white. The image captures the iconic crescent-shaped row of Georgian houses in the foreground, the lush green lawn in the middle ground, and the dense urban landscape of Bath in the background under a bright sky.

A woman with long blonde hair is lying face down on a massage table, covered with a white towel. A therapist in a black uniform is performing a back massage on her. The setting is a spa or bath house with dark wood paneling. In the background, there is a white sink with a chrome faucet, a mirror, and a vase of white orchids. The text "Spa Treatments at Our Spa & Bath House" is overlaid in the center of the image.

A man wearing a grey flat cap, a purple patterned scarf, and a blue and white striped jacket is engaged in conversation with two other people. He is holding a small piece of food in his right hand and gesturing with his left. The woman on the right has long dark hair and is also holding a small piece of food. The background shows a shop interior with shelves and a sign that says "MARKET".

A Gourmet Foodie Experience

A low-angle photograph of three musicians in dark suits playing saxophone, electric guitar, and double bass outdoors against a blue sky. The saxophonist is on the left, the guitarist in the center, and the bassist on the right. The text "An Acoustic Jazz Band Experience" is overlaid in white across the middle of the image.

A close-up photograph of a glassblower in a workshop. The person is wearing a grey long-sleeved shirt and blue jeans. They are holding a glowing, orange-red glass piece that is being shaped on a metal rod. The glass piece is held in a dark, charred wooden mold. The background is slightly blurred, showing a workshop environment. The text "Aqua Bath Glass Blowing" is overlaid in white on the center of the image.

A close-up photograph of a man wearing a grey tweed flat cap and a light blue shirt. He is looking intently at a selection of cheeses and green grapes on a wooden board. The cheeses include a wedge of blue cheese, a wedge of yellow cheese, and a wedge of white cheese. A knife is visible on the right side of the board. The background is blurred, suggesting an indoor setting like a cheese shop or restaurant.

The Gimlet

By the 18th century, the drink was considered one of the most popular of the office. However, alcohol was not the only ingredient in the drink. Lemon juice was used to keep the drink from becoming stale. Then, the drink was born.

The Classic Gin Martini

The classic version of the Martini dates back to 1890. The drink is a combination of gin and vermouth. The drink is served in a martini glass and is garnished with a lemon twist.

The White Lady

The recipe of this impressive cocktail is said to have been created by Harry Campbell, a bartender at the Savoy Hotel in London. The drink is a combination of gin, lemon juice, and orange juice.

Gin made the way it used to be, the way it should be.

It all began in 2009, in a tiny workshop in Hammersmith, London. Two childhood friends, Harry and Steve, had one ambition: to bring back the classic way of making gin. The way that used to be. The way that Harry's father had taught him. Steve had the idea. Harry had the passion. Together, they created the classic. Every bottle of Sipsmit is hand-crafted in a small, family-run workshop. Every drop of every bottle is carefully monitored, from the start to the end. The result is a pure, delicious gin. The traditional distillation process creates a pure, delicious gin. The result is a pure, delicious gin. The result is a pure, delicious gin.
